Around the HIE

"This is something that patients are expecting more and more, that I have access to information, [the HLNy Web Portal] allows me to get their information quicker--I can actually look it up while I am still in the room with them. I can get into the Statewide Network and look at labs, see who they have seen in other systems, and allows me to coordinate their care. As a primary care physician that is my ultimate goal to be their advocate in providing coordinated care."

-Dr. Jennifer Wiley, UHS
Primary Care Oneonta

Dear Emma,

Happy Holidays from the HealthlinkNY Team! After a long and exciting year of change here at HealthlinkNY, we would like to take a moment to recognize and thank you for your continued support. We look forward to another year of collaboration and good health for all. Warmest wishes for the New Year.

Organizations now live with HealthlinkNY

Westchester Medical Center and St. Joseph's Live with ADT

The Valhalla campus of Westchester Medical Center and St. Joseph's Medical Center in Yonkers both went live with a new Admission, Discharge and Transfer (ADT) feed to the HealthlinkNY Health Information Exchange (HIE.) The new ADT feed is a major step toward full digital integration for many large regional medical centers. With this new connection, data on the admission, transfer, or discharge of patients is available electronically to all practices connected to the HealthlinkNY HIE. Bambini Pediatrics & Dr. Hal N. Buch Gastroenterology Go-Live with Bi-Directional C-CDA Connections

Bambini Pediatrics of Poughkeepsie, N.Y. and the office of Dr. Hal N. Buch Gastroenterology in Kingston, N.Y. now have the ability to both send and receive complete community health records for patients visiting their offices via the HealthlinkNY Health Information Exchange (HIE). These new feeds will allow instant access to a patient's complete community health record through their existing MEDENT Electronic Medical Record (EMR) viewer. For doctors, this means a drastically improved workflow facilitated by more information without the need for further training. Click here to read the full story.

Absolut Care Nursing and Rehabilitation Center now live with Web Portal Access

HealthlinkNY is proud to announce that the Absolut Care Nursing and Rehabilitation Center of Endicott, New York completed their Web Portal and Consent Collection Training and is now live with Consent Entry and Web Portal Access to the HealthlinkNY Health Information Exchange (HIE). Providers at Absolut Care will now have access to their patients' complete community health record from wherever they have received care across the HealthlinkNY HIE.
